

BARKER-MAY AND BRUNSWICK TOP MIXED UP EVENT

Tony Barker-May and David Brunswick teamed up to claim the multiple format pairs event at the Collie Golf Club last Saturday. Being played for only the second time, trophy donor, Ken Smallwood, set the players the task of combining in a 3 games in one format, causing much discussion prior to the event and plenty of head scratching about how to score.

Barker-May, fresh from an individual victory at his last start, had the perfect foil in regular fourball partner Brunswick, whose consistency generally assures a healthy result. The winners finished with a total of 62 nett, after 6 holes each of Ambrose, Canadian and Stroke.

Steven Ireland and Clayton Flynn joined forces late in the week, and then combined well to take second place with 63 nett.

Geoff Lee and Greg Moyle were next on 63 $\frac{1}{4}$, followed by Jim Moyses and Alan Kent (63 $\frac{1}{2}$), Wayne Waywood and Denis Cocker (63 $\frac{3}{4}$), John Wray and Mark Malatesta (64), Ian Stewart and Peter Slater (64 $\frac{1}{4}$) and Rob Cavanagh and Chris Connell on 64 $\frac{1}{2}$.

The fine weather meant very good scores amongst the 27 pairs, compared to last time the event was played, with all pairings returning 66 or better getting a reward for effort.

The notable omissions from the winners list were 'Captain Rak' and Phil Warburton. Despite explaining to all and sundry how to play the event, the Captain allowed his partner, 'Warby,' to play the wrong ball on the very first hole. The resulting penalty kept them from the winners list.

Nearest the pins went to Mat Harker, Colin Naysmith and Graham Williams. The long putts were claimed by George Davis and Mike Daley. Peter Slater picked up the long drive.

Ian 'Shanks' Shannon celebrated his birthday week in style, putting in a winning performance in the Scroungers event last Thursday. 'Shanks' tallied 23 points to record a 2 point victory over Mark Sugget on 21 points.

Twenty points was a popular score with Jim Hine, Frank Battista, Neil Motion and George Dorozenko in that group.

Neil McDonald, Ross Brody and Greg Martin rounded out the vouchers with 19 points each.

Helen Annandale was the best of the ladies.

Novelties were won by Rod Simmonds, Phil Eldridge and Alan Kent.

Alan Kent was the eventual winner of the 14 hole Veterans competition last week. Kent was one of a quartet of players to return 30 points.

After count back procedures were put in place, 'AK' got the result from Alf Sanford, Frank Battista and Brian Banks.

Dave Czerniawski was a good winner of Leisure Day with 42 points. Brad Swan was next best with 40 points.
